Ralph & Jenny Sullivan of AWCC South East region sent in this picture of the Nene 250 Festival which was held on Sunday 7th. August 2011. This promotion event for local people was organised by Northampton Borough Council. It celebrated the opening of the river to navigation from Northampton to the Wash in 1761. Several of the AWCC River Nene clubs took part in a Decorated Boat Parade viewed by passers by. It was quite exciting as the conditions were exceedingly breezy making some manoeuvres hazardous. EDITORIAL

Hello again

I have to thank the Midlands and South East regions who have been active in supplying copy to include in Alert. We would welcome more contributions from other areas in order to maintain a balance. It is particularly helpful if clubs or regions holding joint events provide a short synopsis and a few photographs of their events as this makes the editor's job a little easier.

We are also hoping that you will send in information about your upcoming events which you are holding open to other AWCC member clubs. Please include booking information or a web address for inclusion in these notices.

In order to increase revenue and reduce the overall costs of producing Alert it has been decided to accept a few classified advertisements (subject to space availability) in a short format at very low cost—please see page 6 for more information.

Clubs are encouraged to sign up for electronic distribution of Alert which you can then relay on to your members. This will in turn reduce AWCC Executive running costs and the fees charged to member clubs which are inevitably rising. Details on taking advantage of this service can be found on page 7.

Regrettably the next edition of Alert will be my last. I have family commitments which need to take priority. The AWCC is now seeking someone to pick up this role from March 2012 onwards.

The 2012 AWCC AGM will be held on Sat 17th March at Stafford Boat Club

Transition C&RT Trustee Lynn Berry will be the speaker. Clubs wishing to submit resolutions for inclusion in the agenda are required to submit these to the National Secretary on or before 7th January 2012. For more information go to www.AWCC.org.uk

I write as rain drives against the windows, a voice on the wireless announcing that we are in for severe drought conditions next year and to cap it all we are promised at least seven years of austerity not known since the thirties. So much for the bad news, now for the good: the transfer of British Waterways to the Canal and River Trust has created a feeling of optimism for the future of our waterway system. The subject was the only agenda item at the Parliamentary Waterways Group Meeting held on Dec 8th attended by the Waterways Minister, Richard Benyon MP. The minister opened by reporting that negotiation with the treasury is still work-in-progress but the funding gap is closing; we should receive firm news on finance early in the New Year. The transfer from BW to CRT is on track for April next year. He continued to say that the Trust has all party support and the government is committed to a sustainable waterway system for the future. The next step is to issue results of the supplementary consultation as to whether CRT should retain the BW Statutory Powers and be subject to the Freedom of Information Act. AWCC's response to this consultation is available on the website.

On the subject of Waterway re-Classification, it was reported that any application would be subject to a thorough investigation and cost-benefit analysis before being considered. Tony Hales, BW Chairman stated that Category D & E assets will be maintained in a manageable condition of repair and that the current network will be maintained and enhanced for the future.

A statement regarding pension funding for BW Employees will be made in the New Year.

Those of us who have met the Transition Trustees continue to be impressed by their enthusiasm for the task and robust approach to negotiation with government in order to secure the best possible terms for the new trust. Lynne Berry has agreed to represent the Transition Trustees and to give a talk on the CRT at the AWCC 2012 National AGM.

To internal matters: the NEC has been busy on your behalf to ensure that our limited funding is correctly managed into the New Year. We have responded in full to consultations on how the CRT is to be managed and on government proposals to abolish IWAC. The South and West Steering Group is working to re-establish a viable region in that area with an initial meeting of interested clubs scheduled for January 2012.

The NEC is currently stretched to the limit servicing the ongoing workload of managing the association; this will increase as CRT takes responsibility for the waterways and we face the prospect of DEFRA waterways becoming part of the integrated system.

The production of ALERT has out-grown the capabilities of a single editor; you will find details of a proposed group to enhance the publication and it's associated activities below. Please consider if you are able to help in any of these rewarding tasks.

I am looking forward to accompanying Ann Banks as we attend regional meetings early next year. We appreciate the warm welcome we have received to meet club reps and officers on their own patch.

I am delighted to confirm that David Pearce has decided to run for a Private Boater Member of the CRT Council. It is my view that David, with his background and experience, would greatly enhance the new organisation. I am sure you will join me in wishing David every success in this venture.

This leaves me offer my best wishes to you all for Christmas with a Happy and Peaceful New Year.

With Best wishes, Paul le Blique

CAN YOU HELP THE NATIONAL TEAM?

The team works on behalf of all boaters in the AWCC member clubs. We are seeking some motivated people to take a turn in the following roles which have been broken down into small, manageable chunks:

Quartermaster—someone who has free time to contact suppliers of boating related equipment and services. This person would be adept at negotiating deals on behalf of boaters and finding new ways of generating income for the association.

Newsletter editor—from Spring 2012 the current editor needs to step down. This individual will pull together materials forwarded to you by various members of the national team in preparation for publication as in this issue of Alert. Support will be given.

Communications officer – to pull together and oversee all aspects of Communications undertaken by the AWCC.

Journalist / content provider. Someone who can actively monitor web & other resources. Creation of content would be helpful as would daytime availability for phone contact to and from other boating related organisations and press. Again, help will be provided.

PS several clubs & regions have expressed dismay that there is not going to be an AWCC calendar produced next year. Is this something that you could consider working on and coordinating next year?

Reports from the National Executive & the Regions

AWCC National Executive

Fears have been expressed that dredging and maintenance schedules will concentrate on main flagship routes to the detriment of the waterways which are less used. This has been raised with WUSIG

Midlands region

A new regional chairman will be required at the next AGM as Graham Myatt will be retiring. The region is still seeking a quartermaster and seeks a willing volunteer to take over this role.

The region is disappointed that AWCC will not be producing a calendar in 2012.

The region continues to represent boaters at various meetings.

London region

Renovations to the Basingstoke Canal have now commenced with contractors on site working on the deep cut flight of locks as well as other engineering works. A celebration of 21 years since the reopening of the canal is planned for 2–4 June 2012.

For updates about the Thames please go to <http://www.riverthamesnews.com/> and sign up for email updates using the link to the top left of the page. This site features a link to the London Boat show which is running from 6–15 January 2012. Significant restrictions to passage whilst the 2012 London Olympics are being held are expected. Enquiries regarding passage of boats should be addressed to sarahemmings@bw.co.uk

North West region

A boat Gathering due to be held at Dunham Massey (Bridgewater Canal) on 26 May 2012. AWCC members are welcome to attend. Further details to follow.

North West region wishes to report that passages on the Ribble Link are being restricted to boats with a 2' draft despite boats with up to 3' having passed without incident previously. Charges will apply to boats requiring rescue if they prove not to fit this criteria. Bookings are now made on the internet.

A DATE FOR YOUR DIARIES 2014 MARKS THE CELEBRATION OF 50 YEARS FOR THE AWCC

It was founded after the St Pancras Cruising Club commodore got into difficulties in 1963 whilst boating close to Luton & Dunstable Boat Club. He was assisted by their members. Following this an exploratory meeting was held at Uxbridge Cruising Club. These 3 clubs together with Lee & Stort Cruising Club formed the Association of Waterways Cruising Clubs in 1964.

Today the AWCC has over 100 member clubs and affiliated organisations across England & Wales.

To celebrate this milestone a rally will be held at Black Buoy cruising club on the Grand Union Canal in the summer of 2014.

Please watch this space and at www.AWCC.org.uk for more information.

South West region

There are moves afoot to recreate a formal South West AWCC region with a sub group working on this. A meeting of clubs expressing interest in this will be held in the new year.

A large section of the Kennet and Avon was closed during the autumn due to water shortages.

More reports from the Regions

South East region

Due to low spring rainfall in 2011 Braunston had its driest year in the last 90 years. There is need for more support from boaters in conserving water.

Volunteer lock keepers will be in place by Easter 2012. In addition to these further volunteering sources are being sought to include lock painting, clean ups and mooring rangers with an aimed 4-5,000 volunteer days clocked up over the year.

The regional quartermaster Clive Rowlands has recently retired from the committee after 25 years service.

Two clubs in the region have expressed their disappointment that the AWCC is not producing a calendar in 2012.

Jenny Sullivan (Secretary to the South East region) has provided the following advice regarding incorrect use of the guillotine locks on the River Nene: This not only causes inconvenience for other boaters but is crucial to controlling the water flow to prevent flooding. It has been observed that it is visitors to the river who are the main culprits. When leaving the locks boaters should endure that guillotine gates are left in the raised position and V gates are closed with paddles down. Where V gates are placed at either end of the locks the gates may be left open when leaving the locks. Paddles should always be lowered.

Full instructions are recorded at the locks and should be adhered to.

North East Region

It was previously reported that a serious accident had occurred due to the state of the landing stage at White Rose Boat Club. With pressure being exerted by the regional Chair Bob Mennell we are pleased to advise that BW has confirmed a new landing stage should be installed by March 2012.

The region is looking forward to see how the new Canal & River Trust will progress.

People wishing to volunteer services to assist the Canal & River Trust in the region should contact Kevin Tyson on 07808 786745.

AWCC National Treasurer, Ken

Bearpark wishes to make clubs aware that subscriptions to the AWCC in 2012 will be subject to a modest £1 increase. Subs due in 2012 will be £51.

From January 2012 Membership cards, available to order by club reps or regional quartermasters from Ken, will be charged at 20 pence each + P&P

ALERT

NEWSLETTER

New notification service for AWCC ALERT Newsletter

November 2011 sees the launch of a new service to Clubs and individual Club members.

This ALERT newsletter is published three or four times a year and for many years has been circulated to Clubs as a paper copy. More recently, we have produced an electronic version as a PDF file which has been available on the AWCC website at <http://awcc.org.uk/alert>. However until now we had no way to inform AWCC members or Clubs when the latest version had been published.

The AWCC ALERT notification service will send you an eMail whenever a new version of ALERT is available on the AWCC website. The eMail will include a clickable link which will download the PDF version of ALERT to your computer or smartphone.

To sign up to the service for a personal notification, please go to the web link below and follow the instructions there.

<http://eepurl.com/f2Dk5>

Smartphone users can scan this Q-Code to get to the link directly from their phone.

Once you have submitted the subscription form, you will receive a link eMail asking you to confirm your subscription request. You need to respond to this email and confirm your request. You will receive one further eMail confirming your details, so you know your registration is confirmed.

You can unsubscribe at any time from the service by clicking the link on any eMail your receive.

We have already contacted all Club secretaries asking if they would like to receive an electronic copy rather than being sent a paper copy by post. Clubs who opt in to this service help reduce the costs of producing and distributing ALERT, which helps us to keep costs to a minimum. Any Club who does not subscribe to the service will continue to receive a paper version by post.

(For your information, the service we are using is managed by Mailchimp <http://mailchimp.com> and the AWCC has a free account to the service which does not cost us anything. However you should be aware that the details of your subscription are held on a host system outside the UK and therefore may not be covered by UK Data Protection Law. The information you provide is used only to notify you of new versions of ALERT and will not be used for any other AWCC services or passed on to any other parties.)

If you have any questions about this procedure or about the notification service in general, please eMail me at the details below.

OBITUARY - BRIAN KEELING

A former Commodore of Stoke on Trent Boat Club, Brian Keeling, passed away recently. Brian was Commodore from 1985 to 1988. He was a very popular man, an excellent ambassador for the club, with a ready smile for everyone. A talented dancer and singer, he often led members of the club in a sing-song, conducting with a tuning fork. His boat, Josiah Clowes, was always warm and welcoming. With his wife Joan, he was very involved in the social activities of the club, particularly catering – on one occasion when serving teas, he was seen to rinse the teapot in the cut!

At Christmas, Brian was the face of Santa to the children and grandchildren of the club, a role he played many times around North Staffordshire, and latterly, in the Cotswolds village to which he and Joan moved, to be nearer to daughter Karen and her partner John.

A thanksgiving service was held at the Baptist Chapel in Hook Norton, where the villagers had quickly taken Brian to their hearts. Four members of Stoke on Trent Boat Club attended the service, including Midlands Chairman Graham Myatt – a Past Commodore of SOTBC, and Erica Martin, Midlands Secretary and Commodore of the Club, who gave a short eulogy on Brian's boating life.

Warm, open, friendly, obliging - a great guy. This is how members of Stoke on Trent Boat Club remember Brian. Our thoughts and prayers are with Joan, Karen and John.

The new charitable Trust introduces itself and invites readers to sign up for email updates.

Boat licence holders are entitled to stand for election onto the 35 strong C&RT council. Licensed boaters will have voting rights in these elections.

Further information on the elections will be available here from 12 December:

Please use your votes to support members of the AWCC who decide to stand.

In the October edition of the Lee & Stort Cruising Club 'Gazette' there is a report about a summer regatta with a 50's theme. This involved their

BW pump-out price hike

On 1st November 2011 the price for a BW pump-out rose from £10 to £14.75

BW say that on average it costs them £30 to run the service which is affected by breakdowns, customer misuse and costly septic tank service charges in remote areas.

There has also apparently been local consultation regarding closure of the most expensive sites. You are advised to make sure that your views are made known through your AWCC representative!

The AWCC's detailed response to DEFRA's consultation on 'The New Era for the Waterways' can be read at www.AWCC.org.uk

FIRE ALERT

Andrew Phasey, Technical Advisory officer for the AWCC has asked us to bring to your attention the following advice regarding smoke alarms.

The boat safety scheme reports a live aboard boater narrowly escaping death following his disabling of the smoke alarm on his boat when cooking and failing to reinstate the batteries afterwards. Boaters are recommended to fit alarms which have the following features:

'The alarm of choice is an optical alarm with a long-life battery, a hush button, and one that is certified as meeting either BS 5446:2000 Part 1, or BS EN 14604:2005, so it should carry a 'Kitemark' or 'horseshoe' certification mark. Also, if you can't hear it in the saloon while you are in the sleeping quarters, buy two, one for each end of the boat.' The full article is available at

<http://search.boatsafetyscheme.com/news-and-information>

The same location should be checked for advice on 'Keeping Safe with Solid Fuel Stoves'. This includes info on new installations, over firing of stoves, precautions regarding Carbon Monoxide emissions within the cabin, potential for ignition of materials within the boat fabric and routine care and maintenance.

2012 AWCC Handbooks

Clubs reps are requested to check that club contact details listed in the 2011 handbook are up to date by 17th February 2012.

Club reps should order printed copies via the regional quartermasters by the 24th February 2012. Orders submitted by 17th Feb for printed copies will be available for collection at the AGM. Further copies will be available at their face value plus carriage at cost for postage and packing.
